Pickaway County Roads Dangerous On Sunday

FOUR HOSPITALIZED — Four persons were sent to hospitals and two cars were demolished in a serious accident on Route 104 at 5:18 p.m. Sunday. This is one of the cars involved. The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated a total of 12 accidents during the weekend.

Twelve persons were injured in a deluge of motor accidents in Pickaway County Sunday. A total of 12 mishaps including seven with injuries were Red Chinese Say Satellite Deflates U.S.

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China said today that its first earth satellite has "greatly strengthened the militancy of the Chinese people and the revolutionary people of the world."

It said Peking's first achievement in outer space also had "deflated the arrogance of imperialism, modern revisionism and all reaction"—meaning the United States, the Soviet Union and others who don't agree with Red China's leaders.

North Vietnam, North Korea and Albania hailed Friday's launching in much the same language. The Soviet Union and its Communist allies remained silent.

The Japanese government expressed hope that the 381-pound space package would not be used for military purposes. But the conviction grew both here and in the West that the satellite was sending back information which would advance Peking's program to develop intercontinental ballistic missiles.

The satellite feat occurs at a moment of particularly sharp strain in Chinese-Japanese relations. The Chinese recently have repeatedly accused the Japanese government of remilitarizing the country in collusion with the United States. Now the satellite launch coupled with these attacks has stirred belief in some circles that a movement will develop to expand Japan's 270,000-man self-defense force—China has 2.5 million men under arms—and to acquire nuclear weapons.

Some Japanese government sources speculated that the satellite launching may give impetus to moves for a Chinese-American rapprochement. Their reasoning was that Washington would find it more necessary than ever to seek an understanding with the Chinese before embarking on the next stage of the already costly, controversial antiballistic missile — ABM — program.

Issue Standards On Air Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Air Pollution Control Administration today issued recommendations for control of sulfur oxide pollution in the Parkersburg, W. Va. — Marietta, Ohio, area.

Recommendations to control other pollutants in the area were issued March 19.

The primary recommendation to control sulfur oxides in the area calls for reduction of sulfur oxide emissions from the Union Carbide Corp. power generating plant in Marietta.

investigated by the Sheriff's Department which kept local ambulances busy.

At 5:18 p.m. the most serious wreck took place on Route 104 near Van Meter Road, causing injuries to four people.

Charles Warner, 60, of Chillicothe, suffered a fractured knee and Helen Warner facial lacerations when his auto collided with a vehicle driven by Russel L. Spetnagel, 60, of Grove City, fracturing both her legs and causing facial lacerations to Joan Dean, 41, of Chillicothe, a passenger in the Spetnagel car.

THE Spetnagel woman was taken to Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus; Joan Dean received treatment at Berger Hospital and was transferred to University Hospital, Columbus; Helen Warner was treated at Berger Hospital and transferred to Chillicothe Hospital; and Warner received treatment at Berger Hospital and was transferred to University Hospital, Columbus.

According to the Sheriff's report the Spetnagel auto was northbound and dropped onto the berm.

Attempting to get back onto the road the car went left of center, colliding with the southbound Warner vehicle.

Rock Festival A Success, Sheriff Says

POYNETTE, Wis. (AP) — Some of the girls and boys stripped naked and waded in a creek. A vacant farm house burned down. More than 150 persons were treated for minor injuries or misuse of drugs.

But, said Sheriff Vernon Golz, "For the most part they've been very good."

Weekend attendance at the Poyntette rock music festival was estimated at 20,000 Saturday and more than 20,000 Sunday. The crowd paid up to $12 a head for the camping, picnics, sunbathing and amplified music by about 40 rock groups.

Golz said the fire which burned the empty house apparently broke out accidentally in a festival patron's parked car.

He added that there were fewer arrests than expected—"we took only about 15 into custody."

Golz said cooperation between patrons, festival sponsors and law enforcement patrols was excellent, partly because police stayed in the background as much as possible.

Ohio Driver Killed

BATESVILLE, Miss. (AP)—Edward H. Ervin, 28, Columbus, Ohio, was killed Saturday when his car collided head-on with a truck near Clarksdale, Miss., the highway patrol here said.

Lindbergh, 67, and Jon, 37, were met at Haneda International Airport by Mrs. Lindbergh, who had arrived by air from Honolulu several hours earlier.

Revolt Over, All Quiet On Trinidad

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad (AP) — Cricket players in pressed whites were in the city's parks. Sidewalk vendors sold green coconuts filled with sweet milk to strollers made thirsty by the warm sun. Men played darts and hoisted cold pints of beer in pubs during the "five o'clock swill."

Port of Spain was calm Sunday after a week of trouble.

A mutiny in the 720-man Trinidad-Tobago army collapsed Saturday. The rebel soldiers, holed up since Tuesday in the army's main base at Tetrin Bay, handed over their arms.

The mutiny ended after negotiations between the rebels and the government of Prime Minister Eric Williams. Col. Jeffrey Serrette, a former commander of the army, was reappointed, and a special commission was established to investigate the circumstances of the mutiny.

The rebels released about 30 hostages they had held on the base since Tuesday.

The mutineers, who reportedly numbered around 50 officers and men, said they rebelled over leadership at the top. Col. Stanley Johnson, the army commander, resigned Friday while the negotiations were going on.

The soldiers attended a Requiem Mass on the base Sunday for the four persons killed since the crisis began last Tuesday with a Black Power riot through Port of Spain.

"We are in the precautionary stages," acting Police Commissioner Tony May said. "When I am satisfied that the country has returned to normalcy, I will lift the restrictions."

Haiti Calm; Mutineers Sail Away

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Haitian President Francois Duvalier today appeared to be firmly in control after a weekend coast guard revolt failed to touch off rebellion ashore. But the rebels were on their way to Puerto Rico with half of the dictator's little navy, seeking political asylum from the United States.

"It appears to me President Duvalier's position is solid," U.S. Ambassador Clinton E. Knox told newsmen.

"Papa Doc" Duvalier, survivor of more than a dozen plots against his 13-year-old dictatorship, proclaimed the situation "completely under control." He said the rebels would be tried "when they are captured."

Knox said there was no popular uprising—and no panic—when the coast guard flagship Jean Desalines and two of the other seven small ships in Haiti's navy began shelling Port au Prince Friday morning.

The sporadic firing, aimed at the presidential palace, arched over the U.S. Embassy and damaged a bakery near Duvalier's heavily guarded residence. Two slightly injured Haitians were the only reported casualties.

Airline flights and telephone communications were stopped temporarily, but otherwise life

Informants said several Haitian officials had been arrested, among them Justice Minister Rameau Estime. It was uncertain if Estime and others had been rounded up before or after the shelling began Friday.

Armed units loyal to Duvalier were in control of the coast guard's Bizonte base six miles from Port au Prince. U.S. Embassy officials reported no indications of support by land forces for the naval rebels.

"I never saw anything like it in my experience," said the diplomat, commenting on the calm of the populace. He contrasted its placidity with rebellions he had witnessed in Honduras and Dahomey, in West Africa.

On Friday afternoon the rebels fired on and boarded the Miami tugboat "Denise," which was entering the harbor towing a barge loaded with concrete pilings. The rebels seized some food but injured no one. They also stopped a German freighter and took more food.

Haitian Air Force F51s strafed the rebel ships Friday. The ships slipped out of the harbor Saturday and sailed off toward Cuba, reportedly with some 250 men aboard.

The U.S. State Department announced that the three ships (Continued on Page 12)

Cambodia, Laos And Vietnam To Be Targets

By DAVID MASON

SAIGON (AP) — Leaders of North Vietnam, the Pathet Lao and the Viet Cong joined Prince Norodom Sihanouk today in a call for the defeat of the United States and the governments of Cambodia, South Vietnam and Laos.

Western diplomats in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, said the North Vietnamese air force would fly Sihanouk to northeast Cambodia within a week to head a provisional government in Cambodian territory controlled by the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese.

The Viet Cong Radio said the deposed Cambodian chief of state met on the Vietnamese-Laotian-Chinese border with North Vietnamese Premier Phanouvong, leader of the Communist Pathet Lao movement in Laos, and Nguyen Huu Tho, head of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

The broadcast said the meeting "strongly condemned the U.S. imperialists invading Cambodia and the Lon Nol-Sirik Mak clique, which is giving Cambodia to the United States and massacring Khmers, Vietnamese and Chinese."

The four leaders appealed to all Indochinese people "to increase their unity and push ahead with the struggle against the common enemy, which is the U.S. imperialists and their henchmen" in Saigon, Phnom Penh and Vientiane.

In battle action reported today, Cambodian troops exchanged sporadic fire with a Viet Cong unit holed up in a Buddhist pagoda in the crossroads town of Angkassom. But a spokesman in Phnom Penh said the Cambodians would not attack (Continued on Page 2)

Big U.S. Gunship Downed In Vietnam - Laos Action

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the loss of a four-engine American gunship over southern Laos and a U.S. Army helicopter near the besieged Dak Seang Special Forces camp. Ten Americans were killed, four were missing and one was rescued.

It was the first AC130 gunship reported shot down in the war. The U.S. Command said it was hit by enemy ground fire last Wednesday in the lower panhandle of Laos, apparently while on a mission over the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Six of the crewmen were killed, four were missing and one was rescued with minor injuries, a spokesman said.

The AC130 is the gunship version of the C130 cargo and transport plane used to haul troops and war materials. The AC130 carries four miniguns and four 20mm cannon.

The plane can make effective strikes despite conditions of poor visibility that often prevail in Laos. It uses high intensity lights and flares plus advanced top-secret detection devices.

A UH1 Army helicopter was shot down Saturday near Dak Seang, seven miles from the Laotian border, and all four crewmen were killed, the command said. Spokesmen said it was the 14th American aircraft shot down supporting the South Vietnamese and their American Green Beret advisers who have been under siege since April 1. In all, 17 American crewmen have been killed and 14 wounded in aircraft supporting Dak Seang.

The U.S. Command said announcement of the two aircraft losses was delayed while search missions were under way.

U.S. headquarters also reported 17 enemy rocket and mortar attacks during the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today, with two Americans killed and 14 wounded.

In a ground action, 10 to 15 North Vietnamese sappers moving under the cover of a mortar barrage blasted their way into an American artillery base 46 miles northwest of Saigon. Hurling dynamite bombs into bunkers and firing rocket grenades, they killed four men from the 25th Infantry Division and wounded 12 others. Headquarters said the attack did "moderate" damage to the base, and one enemy sapper was reported killed.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Gypsy Rose Lee, famed strip-tease performer and long time "Queen of burlesque" who became an author, stage and screen actress and show-business celebrity, died Sunday of cancer.

Death came at the University of California Medical Center here where she was admitted a few days ago.

She was 56.

Still in her teens, a seasoned vaudeville performer, she made her New York debut as a stripper at Minsky's.

Her first big break was in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1937, where she climaxed her nightly performance by tossing her garter belt into the orchestra pit. At the New York World's Fair of 1939, she earned as much as $4,000 a week.

Miss Lee later became a writer of novels, in the first of which, "The G-String Murder Mystery," a stripper is strangled with her own G-string.

She also turned actress in summer and winter stock and in movies. In her first film, in 1938, she was billed by her real name, Louise Hovick. "The Stigma, I guess," she explained, referring to her strip-tease career. But by 1962, billed as Gypsy Rose Lee for the screen, she laughed, "I guess the stigma has gone."

In 1966 Miss Lee began her own nationally syndicated television talk show, commuting to a San Francisco studio by plane from her home in Beverly Hills.

In her stripping days the shapely Gypsy once said, "Bare flesh bores men. Censors insist on covering up a girl's navel, the least glamorous portion of her anatomy. In Boston they made me put a rhinestone in mine."

She had little censor trouble, for her act was more tease than

Castro Says Exile Force Rounded Up

Week-Long Struggle Ends, Havana Claims

MIAMI (AP) — Radio Havana said today that Cuba had destroyed a 13-man invasion force with every man killed or captured 10 days after the guerrillas landed.

The broadcast by Fidel Castro's official voice did not say how many of the guerrillas were killed and how many were still alive, but reported: "Not one escaped and all the arms, the bullets and the equipment were seized."

None of the officials of Alpha 66, a militantly anti-Castro exile group in Miami which said last week it had landed a guerrilla force in Cuba, was available for comment.

Castro first announced April 19 that an invasion force had landed on his island. In a communique over his own signature — an unusual move — the bearded prime minister said the landing party was composed of mercenaries who came to Cuba from the United States and were armed with guns of the "Yankee Army."

Alpha 66 countered that the guerrillas were Cuban peasants who had gone home to fight to liberate their homeland from communism.

The guerrillas put ashore April 17, Radio Havana said, near Baracoa in Oriente Province on the eastern end of Cuba. Communist radio broadcasts, monitored in Miami, since then reported a series of battles that trimmed the invasion force to only four men.

Two of the remaining men were captured Friday and two more were seized on Sunday.

Castro forces suffered no casualties in the final encounters, the broadcast said.

"The whole group of 13 mercenaries has been put out of combat in a few days in spite of the rugged and lonely terrain," the broadcast said today. "Any mercenary that attempts to invade our land will run the same hazard."

Castro's initial statement said four of his men had been killed and two more wounded.

Youth Falls To Death

YOSEMITE, Calif. (AP) — William R. Smith, 20, Columbus, Ohio, fell 600 feet to his death Saturday while climbing Washington Column, a 1,900-foot cliff in Yosemite National Park.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has trimmed its forces in Europe to about 300,000 men, the lowest level in 20 years, according to new Pentagon figures.

This is 10,000 below the last official figure and the smallest American force in Europe since 1950 when it stood at 145,000 men.

The newest reductions resulted from streamlining of support and administrative personnel, not by trimming combat strength, Pentagon authorities said.

The drop from 310,000 to 300,000 occurred over a span of months and followed similar cutbacks aimed at saving money and reducing the gold flow.

The last U.S. reduction of combat elements in Europe was in 1968 when two Army brigades and some other units were brought back, although these units technically remain earmarked for NATO.

The United States has pledged not to remove any more combat forces from Europe through mid-1971. And there are indications any withdrawals after that time will be held to a relatively small number.

Ohio Road Crashes Kill 28; Bloodiest Weekend Of '70

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Four accidents claimed a total of 10 lives as Ohio suffered its worst traffic weekend of the year, just one week after tying a five-year record low.

Twenty-eight persons — exactly twice the 1970 weekend average — died in traffic crashes, four of them in a two-car accident in Belmont County.

In addition, two young girls carrying groceries home were killed by a car in Medina County, two men died in a one-car crash in Columbus and a young couple received fatal injuries when their car ran off a Wood County road.

One weekend victim was a volunteer fireman who fell from a fire truck en route to a fire. Seven pedestrians were among the victims.

The previous most deadly weekend of the year was that of Feb. 6-8, when 21 died. The average weekend toll so far this year is 14. Five persons died last weekend, tying the weekend of Jan. 23-25 for the safest nonholiday period on Ohio's highways in five years.

The dead:

Burning Of Canal Aqueduct Anniversary Noted Today

By MICHELLE HULSE
Herald Staff Writer

On a fateful Tuesday evening 55 years ago, the old aqueduct spanning the Scioto River buckled and collapsed in a flaming heap into the blue waters.

Three attempts had been made to set fire to the aged structure on that April 27, 1915. Its lifetime covered the exciting period of the Canal Era and the resulting economic boom, to stand finally as a silent tribute to the colorful people who had made it great. Now all that is left is a few stones of the piles that once supported it for nearly a century located just to the south of our present river bridge.

Shortly after noon on April 27, driftwood and cornstalks which had been set ablaze, were discovered in the aqueduct and extinguished by the fire department. At 5 p.m. that same day, fire broke out again and was doused. The arsonist was successful in his third attempt. According to the official fire report, the department was alerted at 11:55 that evening and despite all efforts to contain the blaze, the aqueduct was lost.

The aqueduct was part of the canal system crossing Ohio from Portsmouth to Cleveland, bringing the advantages of sea trade to the little inland state.

When the Ohio legislature passed a law to create the canal, there was a mad scramble of towns and villages to have the waterway pass through their lands. In final competition with Circleville were three other areas, Kefters Point, below the mouth of the Darby and above Hargus Creek, was eyed as most favorable, estimated to save some $7,000 on the project.

Roundtowners noted that if this route were chosen, they would be too far to derive any benefits yet so near that their trade would fade to nothing. The state commissioners proposed that if half of the extra cost could be paid by the city, it would be awarded the contract. In less than one week, local citizens were able to announce their success, no little project for the small farming community.

Work began on the aqueduct immediately. Seven hundred piles were driven into the riverbed to sustain the structure's weight. Huge piers of native stone supported the waterway. It's main body was constructed of local timber floated down the river to the site. The floor was built of roughly squared logs, similar to railroad ties. Enclosed by sides and a roof also of wood the aqueduct made an important connection to a pond on the western section of the town where beaters could sell their goods and buy more to carry on their journey. A sidewalk about two and one half feet wide provided passageway for the mules and their masters over the shallow water of the aqueduct.

History books are quick to point out that "ardent spirits" made work on the canal go much faster. It was common practice for a gang boss to spend more money on whiskey for his men than on bread and meat. It is worthy to note that under the local contractor, workers did without; work progressing slower but more steadily.

On Sept. 19, 1931, water was let into the canal and aqueduct. The following day the "Governor Brown," a boat built by local craftsmen, was launched for the first trip on the waterway, carrying local dignitaries to Columbus for celebrations. Within a week business was steady between Circleville and Licking Summit.

Thus began a colorful and exciting era for the town. Business boomed and more settlers made their homes here. Though not rapid, canal travel was by far safer and quite satisfactory for the times.

For some 30 years the canal reigned in Ohio until the railroad became more secure. By the end of the century, the fast, noisy locomotive had taken most of the canal's commerce and glory. The last boat crossed the aqueduct around the beginning of the first decade of the 1900's. Several years later the waters of the Scioto closed around it where it had once stood in silent tribute to a time and people now unknown.

Doris Sparks, 49, of Route 1, injured her neck at 5:50 p.m. on Route 23 when her auto was struck in the rear by a car driven by Ronald E. Fannin, 25, of Portsmouth.

Fannin was cited for failure to have assured clear distance ahead.

Anita Louise Dies At 55

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Anita Louise, an actress for 50 years and a noted partygiver in a town of partygivers, has died at 55.

She had a pre-Oscars party for 300 April 4 at her Holmby Hills home. Friends said she had complained of migraine headaches during the past week but hadn't seemed ill.

A doctor ordered sedation for a headache Saturday shortly before she died of a stroke, a family spokesman said.

In recent years Miss Louise, who retained a stately bearing and blonde good looks, had appeared on episodes of the "Manix" and "Mod Squad" television series. She was a regular in the "My Friend Flicka" series of the 1950s.

Westfall Needs Levy For Operation

Voters in Westfall School District must make a decision on a new four mill operating levy which will appear on the ballot May 5.

As with many boards of education in Ohio, Westfall has been hit by inflation of the past few years. By Ohio law, at the present time, boards of education must go to the voters if additional funds are required. Even the reappraisal of real estate in Pickaway County failed to bring in enough money to keep the standard of education at its present level in Westfall.

A good educational system even affects the value of real estate in a district. Pride in a school system is essential and now an extra effort is necessary to continue that pride.

Industry, by its higher salaries, continues to lure many teachers away from schools. Surrounding schools have increased salary schedules to attract and hold good teachers and other non certified employees.

By extra effort now, Westfall could continue to make progress.

Controversial Priest Weds In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Plain Dealer said today that a Catholic priest suspended for celebrating an unauthorized mass 15 months ago married a woman from Seven Hills last week.

It quoted the Rev. Robert Burton, pastor of St. John Episcopal Church, as saying friends of the couple—the Rev. Bernard E. Meyer and Lenore Leszczynski—rented the church's hall for a wedding reception Friday night.

The father of the bride, Leon Leszczynski, a salesman and a Catholic, was quoted as saying: "My wife and I were shook up by it. We didn't know it until it happened. We just don't want to talk about it."

Since his suspension following the mass in January, 1969, Father Meyer has been working among the poor from the Thomas Merton Community, a house on the West Side.

The bride, 23, is said to have met the priest because of her interest in working among the poor, the Plain Dealer said.

Father Meyer, 32, and the Rev. Robert T. Begin celebrated the unofficial mass Jan. 26, 1969, at St. John Cathedral for a group calling themselves "Christians who Care." Two months later they were arrested in Washington, D.C., for allegedly invading the offices of Dow Chemical Co., at the head of an antiwar group.

It was the fifth day of fighting in Angkassom, about 36 miles south of Phnom Penh. The fighting has cut the capital off from Takeo, the provincial capital just east of Angkassom. A military communique reported that two bridges about six miles north of Angkassom on the main highway to Phnom Penh had been blown up during the night.

Spokesmen in the capital also said there was heavy fighting between Cambodian forces and hundreds of Vietnamese in the town of Chlong, on the Mekong River 120 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

The Viet Cong now have cut five of the seven highways leading out of Phnom Penh at varying distances from the capital and are expected to move soon to cut the road that runs southwest to the major port of Kompong Som, formerly Sihanoukville. It is the capital's major road connection with the sea. Only this road and another that runs northwest to Thailand were open along their entire length Sunday.

PINCHED NERVES

We hear a lot about pinched nerves these days, but the average person seldom recognizes a case of pinched nerves, nor the far reaching effects this condition can have on the human body. Actually, pinched nerves is a term commonly used to express the cause of a condition, or group of symptoms, that has resulted from pressure or irritation of nerves. This usually takes place in the spine though the pain, or discomfort, may be in another part of the body. These slipped vertebrae, technically called vertebral subluxations, cause direct pressure or irritation on the nerve roots and interfere with normal nerve function.

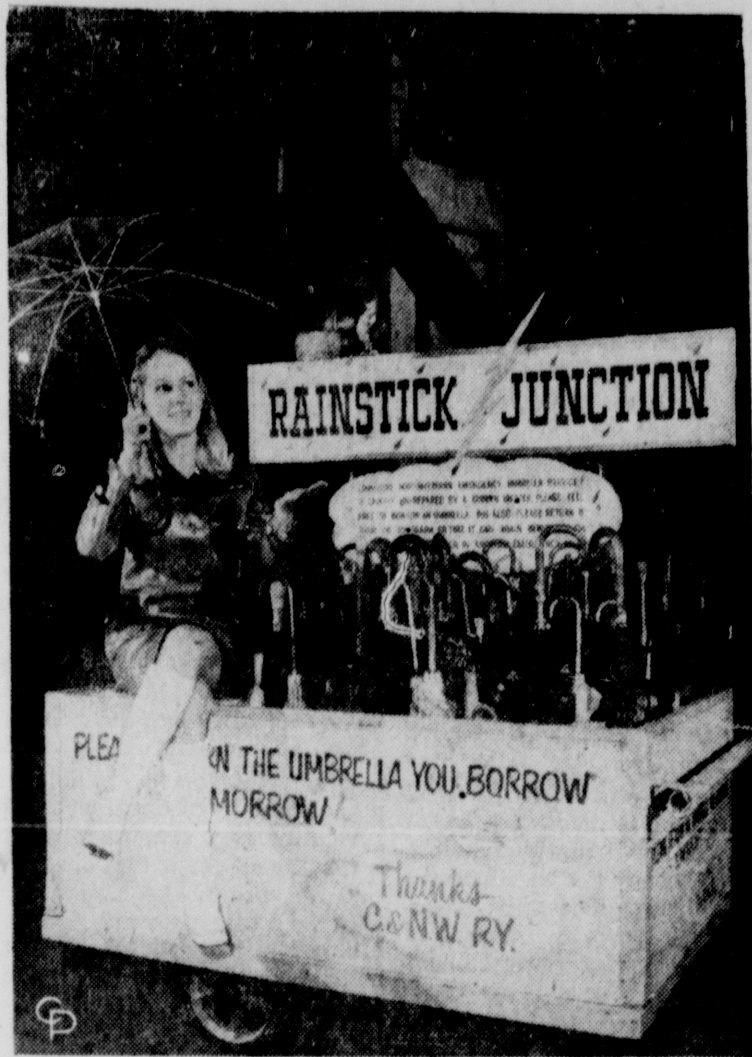

Some of the most common complaints that may develop from pinched nerves are: headaches, dizziness, pains in the neck, face, back, shoulders or chest, pain or numbness or tingling in the arms, fingers or legs, blurred vision, loss of balance, sciatica, muscle spasms, difficulty in swallowing, muscle weakness and joint pain.

Chiropractic authorities point out that your doctor of chiropractic is in the best position to locate and correct a condition of pinched nerves. Early chiropractic care in these cases can usually relieve the patient of months or years of needless suffering.

Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic by the Circleville Chiropractic Center under the auspices of the Central Ohio Chiropractic Association.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Ambitious Date Hurt Her Standing

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower for some time, and for the last year have been taking a divorcee to nice places for dinner, to good shows, and to some nice parties.

Recently, I invited her to a large formal affair. She told me she would go if I would buy her a new formal dress with shoes and purse to match and agreed to pay to have her hair done.

Is that the way it's being done these days?

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: Only by those who are willing to go for it. If the lady didn't have a presentable dress for the occasion, she'd have been ahead to borrow one. Alas, another ambitious chick who may have killed the goose that laid the golden eggs!

DEAR ABBY: The woman whose husband came to the table bare-chested prompted me to write to you.

Bob and I had been married about two years when he developed the habit of coming home from the office, stripping, except for his undershorts, and coming to the table in that state of undress.

I begged him to at least wear a robe, but he refused. Then I decided to cure him once and for all.

I took a large mixing bowl and combined flour, eggs, honey, leftover baked beans, molasses—anything I happened to have around. When my husband sat down for dinner, I told him I had a "surprise" for him. Then I let him have it! I dumped this mixture down on his bare chest.

He didn't talk to me for two days (That's how long it took him to get the honey and molasses out of the hair on his chest.)

I know it was a hateful thing to do, but he never came to the table without a shirt and pants on again.

BOB'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: That must have been an enormous sacrifice. No man makes a habit of displaying the body beautiful unless he's convinced that he looks great that way.

DEAR ABBY: I suggest that "BOTHERED," whose husband comes to the dinner table barechested try what I did to mine 19 years ago.

When we were first married, my husband started coming to the table bare from the waist up. I asked him to please put a shirt on for dinner but he said, "I always did this at home and I don't intend to change." So I said, "Well, if you can eat half naked, so can I," and I then proceeded to peel off my blouse, slip, and bra.

He just sat there for a while and finally said, "Okay, if you'll put your clothes back on, so will I." And so we did. And to this day he has never again come to the table without a shirt. We get a good laugh now when we remember how I broke him of a very repulsive habit.

CHRISTINE FROM LOCKPORT, ILL.
DEAR ABBY: My husband, soon after we were married, started to eat his dinner without a shirt on. He didn't wear a "t" shirt or anything underneath, so I was supposed to look at that bare chest.

I asked him nicely to please put his shirt on, but he refused. Then I told him if I was going to serve a TOPLESS man, he would have to look at a BOTTOMLESS waitress, and I started to undress. Naturally, I didn't get very far. That settled it.

"DID!"

Cities Lose CATV Fight

CINCINNATI (AP) — The cities of Sandusky and Fremont have lost another round in their attempts to tax gross receipts of Community Antenna Television (CATV).

The 6th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals here upheld Judge Don Young of the U. S. District Court in Toledo who ruled that Sandusky and Fremont ordinances taxing CATV gross receipts were unconstitutional.

Ruling in favor of Wonderland Ventures Inc., Young enjoined collection of the taxes. The appellate court said that a gross receipts tax amounted to a tax on interstate commerce and that the ordinances did not provide definite statements for administration of the taxes.

Sandusky had sought to collect a three per cent tax from monthly CATV charges while Fremont had directed each CATV applicant to submit reports based on the percentage of gross receipts and with the tax to be paid on units of 1,000 subscribers.

RICHARD E. BARTON JR.

Richard E. Barton, Jr., age 23, has joined Circleville's General Electric organization, according to plant manager E. G. Grigg.

Barton will serve as a project engineer in the local lamp plant's manufacturing engineering department.

Prior to his local assignment Barton was on an Engineering Program at Evendale, Ohio's Jet Engine Division.

He held assignments at Evendale in the component development test organization, mechanical design of 379 parts, and mechanical design of rotating turbomachinery.

A native of Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, Barton was graduated from The George Washington University, Washington D. C., and holds a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. He was a member of Sigma Tau honorary engineering fraternity while in college.

Barton and his wife Elizabeth will reside in the Garden Plaza Apartments as soon as moving arrangements are completed.

Highway Center Work Under Way

Pruitt - Igoe Complex Microcosm Of Public Housing Faults

Editor's Note: "Pruitt-Igoe is the end of the road." That's how one government expert describes the troubled public housing complex in St. Louis. In this article, an urban affairs reporter examines what's wrong and rumors about Pruitt-Igoe—and the nation's whole public housing program.

By KEN HARTNETT
Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — That high-rise hell Pruitt-Igoe, a shattered and torn symbol of all that's wrong and ruinous in the nation's public housing program, is about to undergo another emergency operation.

This time, there is a glimmer of hope that the 15-year-old housing project, built at a cost of $36 million, will be, at the least, made livable.

But no one is guaranteeing anything.

Hopes of the 10,000 residents who survive in the tombstone-like 11-story buildings have been raised before only to be dashed in continuing waves of murder, rape, robbery and unremitting vandalism.

Now, a new coalition of labor, business and civic leaders has taken charge of St. Louis public housing after a rent strike drove the housing authority to the brink of bankruptcy.

The coalition, working in tandem with the tenants themselves, hopes to turn Pruitt-Igoe around, perhaps by thinning out its high density, modifying its design or even demolishing some of its 33 buildings.

The key element in whatever plan evolves will be the tenants themselves.

"The biggest problem in public housing is maintenance, vandalism and security," said the Rev. Kirk Walsh, a Jesuit serving as a special consultant in the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD). "And the only ones who can control vandalism are the people who live there. But they must have a say so they can determine what happens there."

"Unless the people band together, they're not going to get security. Right now it's costing them $1,700 a day in vandalism in St. Louis."

Last year, Pruitt-Igoe endured 19 murders, 14 reported rapes, 129 reported assaults. Gunfire sounded regularly from the half-abandoned project's upper reaches.

The marks of violence are everywhere in Pruitt-Igoe. Far more windows are smashed than remain intact. Heavy steel doors lie crumpled and unhinged. Thick concrete walls are battered through with sledgehammers. Even the copper flashing protecting the roofs is stripped away.

The vandalism brought disaster last winter—one of the coldest in city history.

Pipes, exposed to the frigid temperatures because of the thousands of broken windows, froze. When they thawed, they cracked and the project was flooded. Heat and power failed.

Scores of families lost their meager possessions as water poured into living rooms, bedrooms and closets.

It was an unusually severe and dramatic emergency, but for residents of Pruitt Igoe, all of them black and 70 per cent of them on welfare, life is a continuing emergency, dull, depressing and dangerous.

"Pruitt-Igoe is the end of the road," said Miss Elizabeth Wood, a HUD public housing specialist.

But Pruitt-Igoe is unique, not in kind, but in degree.

The seeds that produced Pruitt-Igoe have been sown in virtually every major city in America as the poorest of the poor—with no place else to go—are shunted into public housing projects.

Built beginning in 1952 at a barebones cost of $2,089 per room, Pruitt-Igoe was planned as two projects—one, Pruitt, for Negroes; the other, Igoe, for whites.

A law suit torpedoed the intended black-white separation, but the result was never integration. Instead, Pruitt-Igoe became overwhelmingly black.

Charles Farris, who became executive director of the St. Louis Land Clearance and Housing Authority shortly after the project was fully open in 1956, said Pruitt-Igoe was troubled from the start.

The stairways, virtually soundproof, soon became havens for muggers and rapists. They also became public toilets for the thousands of Pruitt-Igoe children unable to get to their apartments in time.

Children—one-half the project's population is under 16—left without recreational facilities, soon found a favorite pastime—sticking the elevators. One variation was to make an elevator door swing open while the elevator was floors above or below.

The unwary could—and did—fall to their deaths.

Three years after the project opened, the St. Louis Globe Democrat was referring to it editorially as "a paradise for thieves, thugs and rapists and a nightmare for police."

Despite its newness, Pruitt-Igoe was acquiring a reputation as a place to avoid. Its vacancy rate in housing-poor St. Louis climbed to 15 per cent by the fall of 1960. It now stands at 50 per cent.

Trying to maintain the abandoned apartments became an almost impossible task as vandals, undeterred by the police or a frightened resident popula-

Gun Control Bill Opposed In Toledo

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — City council met today to resume consideration of a controversial gun control measure.

Most members indicated opposition to the ordinance at its first reading in an emergency session Saturday. The bill has the backing of Mayor William Ensign and the Fraternal Order of Police.

The bill was to have a second reading this morning, then was to be the subject of an open meeting of council's Human Relations Committee this afternoon.

Members of the Black Panthers and the Black Cardinals said Saturday the bill to prohibit carrying rifles or shotguns in the city was another piece of legislation "being jammed down our throats" without improving the social problems that brought guns out.

They agreed, however, to work to keep guns off the street while they "talk out" their problems with city officials.

Mayor Ensign said he believes the Panthers, but added, "they can't speak for other people in the city."

Acting police Chief Robert Duck warned, "If the law is not passed and passed fast, we are going to be in a state of warfare."

tion, smashed their way inside and looted whatever could be carted away.

The cost squeeze grew tighter. By 1968, the housing authority disbanded its private security force to save $120,000 a year.

"With all those empty apartments, the project became an ideal place for a dope pusher to get lost," said the Rev. John A. Shocklee, who joined the St. Louis Housing Commission in 1965.

HUD's Miss Wood visited

Pruitt-Igoe in 1966 to report on an ill-fated attempt to coordinate federal social services in the project.

In three years, $5 million was spent for social services, but the effort fizzled.

"It became a place to breathe and breed and that was the limit to it," said Father Shocklee.

The job of abating that rate and uniting Pruitt-Igoe's still warring elements is a key aim of the new St. Louis Civic Alliance for Housing.

Eventually, the alliance, headed by Teamsters official Harold Gibbons, would like to phase out all high-rise family units and create instead a less concentrated pattern of living for those families most in need.

The alliance also hopes someday to turn over the ownership and management of St. Louis's nine projects to tenant cooperatives.

But in the short run, the alliance must first stabilize Pruitt-Igoe, the heaviest drain on the housing authority's resources. Vacancies there cost the St. Louis Authority almost $500,000 in 1968.

Efforts are being made to beef up tenant organization and lay the ground work for tenant security patrols. Already, foot patrolmen are back in the project. Before the alliance, they had entered Pruitt-Igoe only in response to emergency calls.

Some plans call for converting some of the 33 buildings to another public use, demolishing others. There is also some sentiment for turning the project into a city within a city—a community that would have ownership as well as rentals, its own stores and churches, and its own elected officials.

The latter idea is favored by Father Shocklee. But he is not sure it would work because he believes that basically the tragedy of Pruitt-Igoe is the tragedy of poverty in America.

"Perhaps we should level it and place a plaque," he said ruefully. "This was Pruitt-Igoe. It would be like Hiroshima."

Graduates Entertained By Circleville BPW Club

Professional guidance was given advancing emphasis Sunday at Good Shepherd Methodist Church when Circleville Business and Professional Women's Club entertained girls graduating from Pickaway County High Schools, Westfall, Teays Valley, Logan Elm and Circleville. Faculty advisers present were Miss Jane Tarbill from Westfall and Mrs. Dick Tootle from Teays Valley.

Serving as reception hostess was Virginia Kuhns, who presented each guest with a program rolled to represent a diploma.

In behalf of the club, JoAnn Brink, the president, extended a welcome. She then recognized her fellow officers, who served as the project chairman — Harriett Kaylor, first vice president; Jean West, secretary; Margaret Whaley, treasurer and Nancy Lu Conrad, parliamentarian. Also introduced were the three members who had served as directors of District 10, Clarissa Talbut, Mary Kennedy and Dr. Conrad.

Dr. Conrad introduced the Tijuana Brass Group from Ohio University at Chillicothe, who presented a lively musical interlude.

Mrs. Stephen S. Gussler, guest speaker, was introduced by Mrs. Kaylor. Mrs. Gussler, from Ashville, is a graduate assistant at Ohio State University nearing completion of a Ph.D. degree. She graduated from Eastmoor High School in Columbus as an honor student. Her professional field is anthropology.

To begin her support of advancement for career, Mrs.

Gussler reminded how extremely fortunate students of today are for all the opportunity they have at their command to exercise knowledge and power. She stated that women can do much toward management of world problems in broad yet varied careers and still maintain femininity. She stressed that in so doing one should become involved in variable shared interests but not assume too many responsibilities.

The speaker's concluding summary guidance was "whatever you choose, look outward and endeavor to satisfy shared interests in a wholesome and progressive way as a contribution is made to society."

The final program feature was a Rose Ceremony supervised by Miss Brink. After mention that this was the 50th year for the national as well as the Ohio Federation of BPW for which golden roses were being popular, rose buds were given each guest as sincere good wishes for a blooming future. Assisting in this presentation were the officers, Miss Kennedy, Mrs. Roloff Wolford and Mrs. Kuhn.

Varied findings and interests were shared during the terminating social period. Miss Talbut and Miss Kennedy presided at the tea table from which refreshments were served. The floral centerpiece was taken to Sharon Ely, the club's very special member.

Country Club Plans May Social Events

May will be a swinging month at Pickaway Country Club, with three events featured. On Sunday evening, May 3, a champagne supper will honor new members. Festivities will begin at 5 p.m. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Ron Berlin, 474-7358 or Mrs. Ed Frericks, 474-3609 by Wednesday, April 29. A full house is expected to greet the new members, so an early reservation is advisable.

Tuesday, May 19, is the date set for the women's spring luncheon. A fashion show and bridge will complete the entertainment. On Saturday, May 30, Memorial Day will be celebrated with a "Red, White and Blue" dance. The Mark Lance Quartet from Columbus will be featured.

Social chairmen for the month of May are the Charles Smiths and Myron Haradons. Their committee members are the Ron Berlins, Ed Frericks, Gordon Frasers, Al Grangers, Neal Hamiltons, Eddie Hedges, Joe Smiths and Bob Woods.

Concert Band Enters State Competition

By PAM BROWN
Teays Valley High School Concert Band, under the direction of Mr. Fred Brobst, will participate in the State Band Contest at Brookhaven High School in Columbus today. By earning a 1, or Superior, rating at the district contest in March, the band is eligible to attend the state contest.

The selections to be played are "March Baroque", "Contrasts", and "Introduction and Allegro", the required piece for the state contest.

The fruit sale has been completed, and all fruit delivered. Drexel Poling, band director, informed the Music Boosters that approximately $764 had been made as a result of the fruit sale. It is expected that the band and chorus will conduct the sale again next year.

The Music Banquet will be May 22 in the school cafeteria. It will be a carry-in dinner, with the rolls and beverage furnished.

Girls Attend Gym Contest

By DIANNA JOHNSON
Eight girls from Teays Valley participated in a gymnastics meet at Utica High School April 4 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. The girls were: Connie Collins, Susan Lowry, Sheila Morgan, Kathy Penn, Betty Rodgers, Deb Stur, Kris Trego, and Sue Warner.

The girls were rated on the Olympic scale of 10. The highest rating given at the meet was 7. There were no 'A' ratings given. Deb Stur received TV's highest rating: 6.20; Connie Collins, second with 5.90; and Susan Lowry, third with 5.45.

Miss Linda Warner, adviser, felt all the girls did quite well for their first meet. There were 15 high schools and 1 junior high school in the competition, involving 210 girls.

Miss Warner was a judge on vaulting.

Cheerleaders Are Named For 1970

By RETHA GLOYD
Teays Valley cheerleader tryouts were held April 15 in the high school gymnasium. The 1970-71 cheerleaders are as follows:

RESERVE — JoAnn Brown, Wendy Brown, Vickie Gochenour, Jill Ehman, Linda Sanderson, Debbie Lowry, and Cathy Davis, alternate.

VARSITY — Robin Melvin, Susan Lowry, Sue Warner, Becky Cook, Sally Tosca, Sheila Morgan, and Julie Derr, alternate.

Students Participate In Earth Day Fete

The physical science and American government classes are participating in an all-out campaign against pollution.

On April 22, "Earth Day," they held an assembly and satirized pollution. The assembly included several skits, songs, and poems written by the students.

They also proclaimed the day by riding bicycles to school, making posters and signs, and handing out anti-pollution fliers.

State FTA Confab Held At Capital

By JUDY RIFE
The FTA State Convention was at Capital University in Columbus, April 14. The Teays Valley delegates were John Hines and Shirley Courtwright. Others who attended the conference were Susan Miller, Amy Streeter, and Miss Nelle Oesterle, advisor of the Teays Valley FTA.

JERRY FORSON

BEV RUNKLE

By KAREN WHITE, LINDA ACORD, EDDIE RUMER, LYNNE GREGG, JANET DERR and SUSIE GREEN

Seven students have been named Teays Valley seniors of the week.

Jerry Forson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Forson, who reside at Route 1, Ashville. His main activity at school is football. His hobby is motorcycle riding.

His favorite color is blue, his favorite food is steak, and his favorite subject is mathematics. His statement on how he feels about graduation is, "GREAT!"

After graduation Jerry plans to work.

Bev (Moody) Runkle, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moody, Ashville. Bev resides at Route 1, Ashville, with her husband Sam.

Enrolled in the business course, her favorite subject is English. Some of her other favorites are the colors green and purple, mini skirts, and goofing around with absolutely no work to do!

Some of her distikes are oysters and Saturday night trap shooting.

Bev is presently working at Big Bear as a cashier where she plans to continue working after graduation.

Roger Booth, 17, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Booth of 11556 Long Street in Ashville. He is enrolled in the general course.

His dislikes are people telling him how to wear his hair and clothes. He enjoys sports, cars, and a special girl.

Roger is employed by the Gray Drug Store in the Great Southern Shopping Center, and plans to continue to work following graduation.

Roger comments that he is happy to graduate but that he will miss the kids.

Helen Spires, 18, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Spires of Route 1, Ashville. She is enrolled in the business course, and her favorite subject is Shorthand II.

Her school activities include FTA, NHS, GAA, Drama Club, and vice president of the Business Club.

Helen enjoys working at Cotton's, boy watching, sleeping, fishing, eating, and listening to "Tennessee Bird Walk" and "Dream."

After graduation, Helen plans to attend Nationwide College of Commerce and become a secretary.

Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bolender, Route 1, Lockbourne. He is enrolled in the college

John Hines Is Selected UN Alternate

By DONNA REED

This year's alternate to the UN Pilgrimage for Youth is John Hines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orlan Hines, Ashville. If for some reason the county delegate cannot attend, John will go to New York.

At the UN, delegates listen to briefings on Specialized UN Agencies and Departments, see a council or committee in action, watch the business carried on in the five official languages of the UN, have a guided tour of the UN, have interviews with several UN nations, and are guests for an evening at the International House.

As a basis for selection, a 100-question examination is given on the UN. A "Candidate's Experience Sheet" is reviewed for scholarship, extracurricular activities, concern for community welfare, and interest in world affairs.

Business Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Jack McGuire, 833 Atwater Ave., were in Columbus Friday and Saturday attending the 41st agents' annual meeting of the Motorists Insurance Companies.

The two-day session opened at the Neil House Friday night with the Trail Blazers' Banquet for the Companies' leading agents from Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Michigan, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Saturday's sales program included the film, "The Professional Salesman," designed to help the agent become better equipped to serve policyholders in the fire, casualty and life fields.

Vic Donahue, Company President, addressed the group Saturday night at the final banquet attended by over 800 agents, employees and wives.

Classes Resume In Cincinnati Area

CINCINNATI (AP) — Classes in the suburban Northwest school district resumed today after teachers voted Sunday to honor a Hamilton County Common Pleas Court injunction that ordered them back after a week-long walkout.

About 360 of 480 teachers stayed away from school in a wage dispute with the school board. Colerain High School and two junior highs had to be closed but elementary schools remained open.

daughter of Chaplain and Mrs. Charles Franklin, who reside at Route 2, Orient.

Bev's activities at school include track, choir and chorus ensemble, and intramurals. Her pastimes are sewing, sports, and cooking.

Bev's comment on graduation is, "I can't wait to get out."

Winter Back In Western Part Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter popped back into the Western states today in the form of snow and cold rain while violent spring thunderstorms pounded parts of the country's midsection.

The mid-Atlantic region of the East Coast had scattered thunderstorms.

Four inches of snow fell in six hours at Ely, Nev., and locally heavy snows were expected to continue in that state.

Travelers warnings were out for the Sierras of north California and heavy snow warnings were issued for northern and western Utah.

Stockmen's warnings were in effect for southern Montana, northern and western Wyoming and the western Dakotas. Heavy snow was predicted for the mountains and snow or rain for the lowlands.

Thunderstorms struck the upper Mississippi Valley, and a severe thunderstorm watch was in effect for parts of South Dakota and Minnesota in the early hours.

Warm, humid air in the middle of the nation produced violent thunderstorms. Hail which reached the size of baseballs hammered Lawton, Okla., and winds reached almost 60 miles per hour.

Much of the Midwest, the Southwest and the Northeast enjoyed clear skies and pleasant temperatures.

However, as the storm in northern California moved southwest, strong, gusty winds were expected to blow up sand in the desert regions.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 23 at Redmond, Ore., to 78 at Key West, Fla., and Brownsville, Laredo and McAllen, Tex.

Woman Killed As Parachute Fails To Open

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP) — A 30-year-old secretary from Toronto, Canada, was making her 68th parachute jump Sunday when her parachute failed to open and she fell 5,500 feet to her death near Garrettsville in Portage County.

The victim, identified as Edith Wagner, was killed on impact, according to Coroner Robert A. Sybert. He said she suffered a skull fracture, crushed chest and other fractures.

Miss Wagner was the first of four persons to jump from a plane piloted by Dale Gates, 40, owner of the Cleveland Parachute Training and Sport Center at Parkman in Geauga County.

Gates' wife, Lucinda, said there was evidence Miss Wagner attempted to pull the cord of her main parachute which malfunctioned. Authorities were trying to determine why the woman's reserve parachute did not open.

Welfare Reform Plan Hit By Liberals, Conservatives

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's welfare reform program is under fire from liberals and conservatives on the Senate Finance Committee as the panel prepares to open public hearings this week on the legislation.

Some members say the President and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch appear to be presenting the House-approved plan on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

But these senators, including Democrats and Republicans, say the bill will get a long and hard look at the hearings starting Wednesday, and undoubtedly many changes will be made.

Finch has said he will recommend a veto if the Senate liberalizes welfare reform beyond the Nixon recommendations.

The measure as now written would convert the much-criticized aid to dependent children program into a family assistance plan and guarantee a yearly cash income of at least $1,600 to a family of four. The working poor would be included for the first time.

Finance Committee conservatives say the administration estimate of $4.4 billion additional annual cost is too low, and the provisions designed to channel the welfare recipients into jobs are of dubious worth.

On the other hand, liberals insist the new benefits are far too low. They say the plan will leave millions of Americans still in poverty and not give real help to states hard pressed to meet the costs of welfare, education and many other programs.

However, some of the Finance members concede privately the net effect of the criticism from the right and left may be a canceling-out process so the bill will clear the Senate about in the form Nixon submitted it.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., the committee chairman, says his group will take its time with the legislation but he is confident a bill will be approved by Finance and pass the Senate.

Long is one of the strong critics of the plan. He says it "does not solve the problem—it just makes it cost $4 billion more."

How The Weather Looks

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary for Ohio:

The warm weather of Sunday was making a repeat performance today as warm conditions are expected to continue until the middle of the week.

Generally fair conditions Sunday were accompanied by temperatures in the 70s at most locations in the afternoon.

Cleveland airport with 76 and Findlay with 80 recorded the warmest so far this year. However, while Cleveland was reporting the 76, the Cleveland lighthouse on the Lake Erie shore had 58 degrees where the water temperature is 44.

Shortly before sunrise this morning readings ranged from 45 to 50 in northern Ohio to 50 to 55 in the south under clear or partly cloudy skies.

High pressure is expected to continue over the southeastern states tonight and Tuesday, giving a light southerly wind flow across the Ohio Valley to the lower Great Lakes area.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 50s and highs for Tuesday will be in the 70s or low 80s along with partly cloudy skies.

The extended outlook for Tuesday night and Wednesday calls for mild weather with a chance of showers.

Florida Becomes Battleground For Conservationists

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Writer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — To people in colder, dirtier climes, Florida has always been a sub-tropical dreamland of clear blue skies, sparkling waters leaping with game fish, flamboyant flowers, and wildlife roaming in abundance across forests and swamps.

From everywhere, they came by millions, many as tourists who fell in love with this land of islands and palm trees and returned to settle down. On the southeast Florida Gulf Coast, a solid chain of cities rose out of the swamp. Around Tampa Bay on the Gulf of Mexico, they built a teeming megalopolis.

And, as their numbers mushroomed, they unwittingly began to degrade and destroy almost everything that had drawn them here.

Industrial chimneys, jet aircraft and cars clogging streets of cities that host 21 million visitors a year filled once pure air with noxious gases. Human sewage, industrial wastes, and irrigation water thick with fertilizer, pesticides and muck befouled lakes, streams, bays and oceans. Famed fishing waters died. Drainage of vital marshlands took a deadly toll of birds and animals.

And as the 1970s arrived, Floridians woke up to the fact that the end of their cherished way of life could be near at hand.

So nature lovers united for the first time, have launched a massive fight to halt pollution and somehow find the road back toward an environment healthy for all creatures.

In just a few months, the battle has brought these results:

—Under intense pressure from conservationists, the U.S. government forced a halt to construction of a Miami super jetport that opponents claim would have posed a serious pollution threat to the wildlife of Everglades National Park.

—The Florida Power and Light Co. was ordered by a federal-state conference to prove that thermal pollution will not lay waste to Biscayne Bay before its nuclear power plant at Turkey Point can go into operation.

—Backers of the $200-million Cross-Florida Barge Canal, on which $53 million has been spent, are fighting for the project's life against a mass assault by scientists. Foes of the ditch say, that unless stopped, it will ruin the valley of the Oklawaha River, one of the nation's most beautiful unspoiled streams.

—In an unprecedented action, the state will drain, clean out and restore 30,000-acre Lake Apopka near Orlando. Once famed for its fighting bass, the lake that nature took thousands of years to create was killed in a generation by municipal and agricultural wastes.

—The people are in a state of revolution," says Lyman E. Rogers, president of Conservation 70s, a new organization which claims 250,000 backers and says its numbers are increasing.

As the 1970 legislature went into session April 7, the dominant theme of conversation around the state was conservation and pollution.

This year, all 119 House seats are up for grabs, and many of the state's senators are campaigning for higher offices.

Nathaniel P. Reed, chairman of the Florida Air and Water Pollution Control Board, said hearings around the state brought out a constant parade of witnesses with "horrible, horrible stories."

Tampa Bay, fouled by city sewage, phosphate mine wastes and chemical company acid spills, dangerous for water sports; Palm Beach, water and air pollution threatening health of residents, Lake Worth drying; Pensacola, two giant bay systems strangled by raw sewage and chemical plant discharges; Miami, all streams open sewers, ocean contaminated by sewage outfalls; Jacksonville, air so polluted it kills trees and plants and peels paint off automobiles, a giant mushroom of brown and black slime spreading ahead of the St. Johns River as it oozes into the Atlantic.

Reed claims elected officials "still don't seem to realize the depth of public feeling."

But Rogers predicts that the legislature, beset by "the first powerful conservation lobby ever formed," will yield to pressure and "pass more environmental laws than any other session in history."

Although the full-scale people's war is less than a year old, the first stirrings were heard Jan. 25, 1966—a day on which former Gov. Haydon Burns called a hearing to consider a package of Florida public works proposals for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

At the time, the Corps had received its first $1 million and had started a little work on the barge canal connecting the Atlantic and the Gulf of Mexico across north Florida.

No public hearing had been held before Congress approved the canal. Conservationists saw in the Burns session an opportunity to voice outrage over a project they said would rape the Oklawaha Valley for the benefit of a handful of bulk cargo shippers.

"We snowed them under," said William H. Partington, head of a scientific group called Florida Defenders of the Environment. "Hundreds showed up to fight for a shift of the canal route away from the Oklawaha. Scientists were there from all over the nation."

"But it was soon obvious," Partington related, "that nobody was listening to us. Our objections never were reported to Congress. It was the beginning of a realization that we had to get started in politics if we were going to save Florida."

Two years later, when the Dade County Port Authority announced that it would build a giant jetport for the supersonic age of travel on a 38-square-mile site in the Everglades west of Miami, the reaction was quick and decisive.

Warning that the jetport would block and pollute the "River of Grass", which nourishes a wildlife system that has survived since the age of dinosaurs, 19 national conservation groups rallied for a showdown fight.

Although work on the jetport was in full swing, with $13 million spent, Gov. Claude Kirk lined up with the conservationists. Interior Secretary Walter D. Hickel and Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe worked out an agreement with the Port Authority to move the jetport to another site.

"It was at this point," Partington said, "that conservation became politically rewarding."

Now feeling their muscles, Partington's FDE marshaled 160 scientists for a new, all-out attack on the barge canal. President Nixon has referred the project for restudy to his Environmental Quality Control Council; the legislature is considering whether to cease state support of the project, and the Environmental Defense Fund of New York has sued to stop the canal, charging the Army Corps of Engineers with violating the constitutional rights of the people of the United States by destruction of treasured natural resources.

The successes in Florida, Partington says, "have had a terrific impact on the conservation movement, because everybody has an affinity for Florida. No matter where you go, people talk about it. Even if they don't get to come, they like to know that it's here."

Debris Of Fiery Derailment Cleaned Up North Of Athens

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The last of the debris from this weekend's fiery derailment north of here has been removed from the tracks and train travel was to resume today, a railroad spokesman said.

Twenty cars of an 89-car Penn Central freight jumped the rails Saturday afternoon. A tank car filled with highly flammable fuel split, spewing flaming ethylene over a large area. One house, a small building and about three acres of field burned.

No injuries were reported, although the owner of the house that burned, John W. Hicks, was hospitalized briefly for observation. He was not in the house at the time of the accident, Athens County deputies reported.

Edward Conley, who lives across the tracks from Hicks, said the fuel tank exploded in a huge mushroom cloud of flame, followed by a sheet of flames that stretched back up the track.

Flames and smoke billowed as high as 3,000 feet at one point. Firemen from three communities had the blaze under control within a short time, but the ruptured tank car still was burning this morning.

Firemen said the tank "might take 2-3 weeks to burn itself out."

The Penn Central freight derailed on Chesapeake & Ohio tracks because it was being rerouted around the scene of another Penn Central derailment Saturday in the Perry County town of Corning.

The C&O handled the clean-up. A C&O spokesman said no cause had been determined for the derailment because the investigation could not be completed until some of the derailed cars were pulled from the Hocking River.

RCA Officials Speakers At Toastmasters

Vince DeFrank and Bob Schneider of RCA were special guest speakers at the Circleville Toastmasters meeting recently at the L-K Restaurant.

DeFrank described the continuous glass making process which will be employed at the local plant.

Two glass components of a finished color television tube will be manufactured here — the front panel and the cone shaped rear funnel.

Howard Snook, president of the Toastmasters, announced that District 40 conference of toastmasters international will be held May 9 in Cincinnati. The next regular meeting will be a joint meeting with the Chillicothe Club May 12 at the L-K Restaurant.

Tony Contino won the club speech contest which followed the special program. Bill McKinney's talk was selected as the best table topic of the evening.

Guests at the meeting were Dave Whaley, Bill Lewis and Charles Reid.

Views On TV - Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television viewers were offered a varied menu of special programs over the weekend. At one end was Raquel Welch's first television special, on CBS Sunday night, and at the other was Saturday night's NBC "White Paper," a moving report on mental illness among adolescents.

"Cry Help," as the 90-minute NBC program was called, was filmed primarily in a California mental hospital where a few of the young patients were selected for special, intensive therapy. The TV program concentrated on two patients, a shy girl named Gloria who had withdrawn into her own world of fantasy, and an aggressive girl, Debbie, who directed hostility at herself as well as her family.

In the therapy sessions, the patients talked about their fears and angers. Particularly revealing were the parents of the patients, talking with painful frankness of their perplexity and feeling of helplessness in dealing with the children.

By program's end, marked improvement in the patients' conditions could be seen, although complete recovery was not insured. The program reported that millions of American children are beset by emotional problems and only a few are receiving psychiatric help.

It was a big subject to tackle in a relatively short program and could only shed a little light, but it was done with intelligence and sympathy.

"Raquel" was one of those overproduced, overcostumed and overloud productions, apparently designed to further enlarge Miss Welch's image as sex-symbol and movie star. The larger-than-life lady appeared before such larger-than-life monuments as the Mayan ruins in Mexico, the Cathedral of Notre Dame and an ancient English castle. She dressed as a lady of Camelot, a Parisian gamine and apparently human sacrifice in an old Mexican ritual. There was a wriggling number with Tom Jones; a comedy number with Bob Hope that did not have a single chuckle in it; and something about a horse with John Wayne who looked awfully uncomfortable.

Miss Welch may be the possessor of the most interesting female architecture since Marilyn Monroe, but her first TV special was simply a pretentious disaster—unless it was done as camp. In that case, it was just long, dull and heavy handed.

Niekro, Atlanta Mow Down Pirates On 2-0 Shutout

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
The butterfly that lives in Phil Niekro's knuckeball is back in business after taking an exasperating two-week vacation.
Niekro's knuckler, normally one of the most puzzling pitches National League batters must face, was no mystery until Sunday when the Atlanta ace mowed down Pittsburgh 2-0 on a two-hitter.
In his first four starts, Niekro and his flutterless knuckler had been racked for 30 hits, 11 home runs, a 7.78 earned run average and four straight losses. The butterfly, obviously, was out of town.

But everything fell in place for Niekro Sunday. He pitched hitless ball for 6 2-3 innings and completely baffled the powerful Pirates with his rested and rejuvenated knuckler dancing all over the place.
Elsewhere Sunday, New York topped Los Angeles 3-1, St. Louis dropped Cincinnati 4-1, Chicago whipped Houston 6-3, Philadelphia edged San Diego 3-2 and San Francisco split a doubleheader with Montreal, winning 11-1 before losing 3-2. Although it had no trouble with the Pirates, Niekro's returning butterfly couldn't solve the Forbes Field no-hit jinx. No pitcher has ever achieved a hitless game in the 61-year history of the park which the Pirates will vacate next month for their new Riverfront Stadium. Niekro defied the jinx until a two-out error in the seventh gave Manny Sanguillen a swing and the catcher's single broke up the no-hit bid.

Tommy Aaron cracked four straight hits including a homer and double which accounted for both Braves runs.

Niekro missed his no-hitter but New York's Tom Seaver got his—a perfect one too—if you don't mind your classics spread over two games.
Seaver, who had retired the last 16 batters in order—a record-breaking 10 on strikes—against San Diego last Wednesday, knocked off the first 11 Dodgers Sunday. That gave him 27 consecutive batters retired, the equivalent of a perfect game.
The Met ace settled for a six-hitter with home runs by Donn Cledonon and Mike Jorgensen leading the attack. Bud Harrelson stole three bases including home for the Mets, who ended a 30-inning runless streak.

The victory was the 14th straight over two seasons for Seaver.
Bob Gibson throttled Cincinnati on five hits, striking out 15 for his strongest performance of the season as the Cards beat the Reds.
Gibson, knocked out in each of his first two starts, fanned six Reds in order over one stretch and Lou Brock's three singles led the St. Louis offense.

Ron Santo busted out of a slump with a grand slam homer and Billy Williams and Jim Hickman had solo shots leading the streaking Cubs past Houston.
Santo's sixth inning slam doubled his runs batted in total for the season and was the fourth of his career. Two outs later, Hickman connected.
The victory ran the Cubs' winning streak to 10 games—all at home. Chicago starts a road trip in Pittsburgh tonight.
The Giants destroyed Montreal with homers in the first game of their doubleheader, getting grand slams from Willie McCovey and Dick Dietz and bases-empty shots by McCovey and Bobby Bonds.

Mike McCormick rode the heavy hitting to a three-hit victory.
Rookie Carl Morton earned his first major league victory for the Expos in the nightcap, with a double and triple by Mack Jones keying the Expo offense.
Jones tripled and scored on Rusty Staub's single in the first and doubled home what turned out to be Montreal's winning run in the fifth. Ken Henderson had a two-run homer for the Giants.

Pinch hitter Rick Joseph tripled home the tying run in the eighth inning and scored on Tony Taylor's pinch single, lifting the Phillies past the Padres. Dick Selma, working in relief of winner Chris Short, blanked San Diego in the last two innings for his third save in as many games.

Cardinals Shut Off Cincy, Win Last Tilt Of Series, 4-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds return home today still leading the Western Division of the National League although they dropped two of a three game series to the St. Louis Cardinals and a fourth game was rained out.
The Cardinals' Bob Gibson put the Reds down Sunday with five hits and struck out 15, six in a row. He won the game 4-1.

Reds pitching suffered in the Sunday game as they gave up 10 walks, two of them for runs.
Cardinal outfielder Lou Brock led the Redbird attack with three singles scoring the first run in the third inning.
"The key to stopping the Cardinals," said Reds manager Sparky Anderson, "is still to keep Brock off the bases."
"I know they've added Richie Allen and I know how dangerous he is.
"But if you keep Brock off the bases and Allen hits a home run it only counts one run. If Brock's on, there's so many things the Cardinals can do and, with an Allen homer, it makes a big inning."

Brock reached base four times Sunday. In the third he led off with a single and, although he was forced, the Cards wound up loading the bases and scoring when loser Jim McGlothlin walked Joe Hagge.
In the fourth Brock managed a two-out single and scored from first on Jose Cardenal's double. In the sixth he set up another Cardinal run with a one-out single that moved Gibson from first to third.
Two walks followed by reliever Ray Washburn and in came another run. The fourth run came in the eighth on Cookie Rojas' bases-loaded grounder.
Cincinnati's only run was scored in the sixth. Angel Bravo singled to right and was forced by Tommy Helms but Bobby Tolan doubled scoring Helms.
Tony Perez, Reds third baseman with the highest batting average in the league went hitless for the second straight day. He is suffering from a sore hand, the Reds reported.

Lloyd Ruby Wins Trenton 200; Hopes For 18 More

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
There are 25 stars painted on the red, white and blue car Lloyd Ruby is driving on the USAC championship trail this year, and there's also a great big Apollo XII sign on the nose cone.
Why the stars?
"We're patriotic," drawled the 43-year-old Wichita Falls, driver. "You'll also notice that six of the stars carry the names of big car races I've won. We hope to fill the remaining stars before the season is over."
Ruby filled one of the blank spaces Sunday when he drove the low-slung turbo-charged Offenhauser to victory in the $76,500 Trenton 200, knocking off such younger drivers as Mario Andretti; the Unser brothers, Al and Bobby; and Wallyallenbach in the process.

Ruby picked up the Apollo XII designation with the blessings of moon astronauts Pete Conrad, Dick Gordon and Alan Bean. The three have no financial interest in the car but all will work at times in Ruby's crew during the month of May at Indianapolis. Conrad also is a licensed race driver.
The car is owned by Gene White, an Atlanta tire distributor, and sponsored by Denver businessman Bill Daniels. Daniels is a close friend of the Apollo 12 astronauts and, incidentally, of President Nixon.
"With all of these people behind me, all I have to do is drive the car," said Ruby. And drive it he did at Trenton Sunday.
Bidding his time while Andretti, Al Unser and Dallenbach fought a heated duel up front, Ruby didn't make his move until shortly after the halfway point over the kidney-shaped 1 1/2-mile Trenton Fairgrounds Speedway. He sailed around leader Andretti on the 104th Circuit and drove the rest of the way without serious challenge.

Andretti came in second in his STP Hawk Ford, the car he used to capture both races at Trenton last year. Al Unser finished third, also in a Ford, while brother Bobby Unser came in fourth and Mike Mosley fifth.
Ruby's speed for the race was 135.967 miles per hour and his share of the purse was about $14,000. It was his first victory since winning a 150-mile at Milwaukee in 1968.
Two other key auto races during the weekend were postponed because of bad weather.
The 250-mile event for NASCAR Grand National stock car drivers at Martinsville, Va., was rescheduled for next Sunday. Richard Petty's Plymouth will be on the pole.
The second race in the Trans-American series for small sporty cars Camaros, Javelins, Mustangs was rained out at Dallas. No new date was announced for it, but the sponsoring Sports Car Club of America said it probably will be in mid-summer.

Frank Beard Wins $30,000 Prize In Golf Tourney

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Frank Beard had just picked up a $30,000 check, the second largest of his sparkling career, and was talking about his long-range goals in golf.
"Financial security for my wife and my family — and me," the soft-spoken, thoughtful perfectionist said Sunday. "I don't know how much money that is, or when it will come."
Then he smiled.
"Maybe it's a million dollars."
It's not as far-fetched as it sounds, Beard's impressive seven-stroke victory in the prestige laden—but troubled—Tournament of Champions pushed his career earnings to more than $568,000. He now has more than $53,000 for the year and appears to be well on his way to his fourth consecutive $100,000 plus season.

And he's only 30.
Although he ranks seventh on the all-time leading money list, topped the money earnings last year and has won nine tour events, he's a relative unknown to the fans.
He's quiet and relatively colorless — but one of the most feared competitors on the tour. "That man's unbelievable," said British Open champion Tony Jacklin, one of three tied for second behind Beard.
Frank bolted out to a six-stroke lead at the turn, changed his strategy and coasted into a seven-stroke victory, the largest margin of the year on the tour. He had a final 71, one-under-par on the La Costa Country Club course, for 273, 15-under-par.
Jacklin, two strokes back going into the final round, failed to set his clock for the change from standard to daylight time, didn't have time to take a single practice swing and struggled through the gusty winds with a 76 for 280.
He was tied at that figure with South African Gary Player, 71, and Masters champion Billy Casper, 72. Arnold Palmer was next with a 70 for 281. Orville Moody had a 70 for 284 and Jack Nicklaus was one of three at 286.

Cleveland Loses To Chicago, 2-0

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The green, green grass of home did in Dean Chance and the Cleveland Indians Sunday but the Minnesota air seems to be working wonders for Luis Tiant.
Chance and Tiant were the key figures in a six-player swap between the Indians and Twins last winter. Both pitched well Sunday but came out on opposite ends of the won-lost spectrum.
Chance, 1-2, scattered nine hits in eight innings, walking two and striking out seven but the Indians lost to the Chicago White Sox 2-0, with the high grass at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium affecting two key infield hits.
Tiant, meanwhile, ran his record to 3-0—he was a dismal 9-10 a year ago—by shutting out the Detroit Tigers on three singles, 6-0. He also stroked a double and two singles, stole a base —third base, no less—and knocked in a run.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore made it 14 straight over Kansas City 10-9, California shaded Washington 3-2 and then traded Rick Reichardt and Aurelio Rodriguez to the Senators for Ken McMullen, Milwaukee tripped Boston 5-3 and the New York Yankees drubbed Oakland 8-3 for Mel Stottlemyre's first victory.
The White Sox nicked Chance for single runs in the second and third innings. The first scored on Joe Horlen's slow bouncer down the third base line which was allowed to roll and stayed fair. In the third, Luis Aparicio bunted safely down the third base line, took third on a double by Carlos May and scored on Buddy Bradford's sacrifice fly.
"There was nothing I could do about either one," said a disgruntled Graig Nettles, the Cleveland third baseman. "I was completely frustrated. I guess all I can do is play closer if they're going to keep the grass here as long as it is."

Head groundskeeper Harold Bossard admitted the grass is too long and the ground too soft, adding: "But what can I do? Our hands were tied. We couldn't do anything to the infield before this because it has been either too wet or we've had to put the tarpaulin down. But now, with the Indians on the road for 10 days, we'll get the grass cut."
Leading 1-0, Tiant triggered Minnesota's four-run sixth inning with an RBI double, then swiped third and scored on Cesar Tovar's infield single. Harmon Killebrew drove in two runs, each with a single.
Don Buford's three-run homer in the eighth inning carried Baltimore to victory and nullified Kansas City's comeback from a five-run first-inning deficit. The Royals haven't beaten the Orioles since taking a 4-2 decision last May 9 in the first meeting of the teams.

Brooks Robinson drove in four runs for the Birds and Dave Johnson hit a two-run homer. Ed Kirkpatrick and Bob Oliver connected for Kansas City, the latter with two on.
Before the California-Washington trade, Rodriguez crossed the plate with an unearned run on Sandy Alomar's eighth-inning double. That gave the Angels a 3-0 lead, enough to withstand Mike Epstein's two-run homer in the last of the eighth.
Gene Brabender's strong hurling and a three-run uprising in the eighth, highlighted by Max Alvis' two-run single, enabled Milwaukee to hold off Boston. Gerry Moses hit a two-run homer for the Red Sox in the ninth.
Jerry Kennedy, who broke a long hitless drought with a fifth-inning homer, looped a two-run single in the sixth as the Yankees rallied for four runs to beat Oakland. Bobby Murcer wrapped it up with a two-run shot in the eighth. Don Mincher homered for the losers.

Five Records Set In Meet

Tigers Place Second In Unioto Relays

Setting two meet records Circleville earned second spot in the 10-team Unioto Relays Saturday won by Adena.
The Tigers established new marks in the 2-mile relay, 8:33.0, and the shuttle hurdles, 62.9. In addition meet records were set in the high jump, 6 feet 3 3/4 inches, the pole vault at 13 feet 2 1/2 inches and the distance medley in 8:11.6.
Logan Elm's Braves also gave a good account of themselves garnering 20 points and sixth place in the standings.
Adena scored 82 points to gain the first spot. Circleville had 57, Athens 56, Unioto 51 1/2, Southeastern 27, Logan Elm 20, Zane Trace 10 1/2, Miami Trace 10, Paint Valley six and Greenfield gained two points.

BILL McGowan, Rich Campbell, Joe McGowan and Phil Pike made up the record-setting 2-mile relay Tiger team.
Circleville's mark making shuttle hurdle team was Gary Owens, Gary Spangler, Paul Bost and Dick Walters.
Bill McGowan, Scott Withers, Joe McGowan and Phil Pike set a new Tiger school record running the distance medley in 8:11.65.
Walters, Circleville's crack hurdler, captured the 120-yard high hurdles in 16.0.
Bost took second in the pole vault for the Tigers, going 11 feet 8 1/2 inches.
Owens was third in the high hurdles to add points to the Tiger total and Circleville captured fourths in the 880-relay, spring medly, 440-relay and mile relay.

Jim Schwalbach, Jerry Hedges, Tom Sykes and Byron Sykes made up the Braves' 2-mile squad. The distance medly team was Schwalbach, Fox, Jeff Jones and B. Sykes. Fox, Steve Curtis, Kenny Kurtz and Weaver ran the 440 for the Redmen.
Circleville will be at the Wilmington Invitational tonight and Logan Elm will host Zane Trace and Paint Valley Tuesday.

Derby Day Field Looks Largest Ever

LOUISVILLE (AP) — The hopes—and doubts—began building in earnest today as the world of thoroughbred racing focused its attention on Churchill Downs—the home of next Saturday's Kentucky Derby.
And there were more hopes and doubts than usual, with a field of 18 to 20 3-year-olds shaping up for the $100,000-added, 1 1/4-mile classic. If 18 start, it will be the biggest field since Tomcy Lee defeated 16 rivals in 1599.
Support was solid for Raymond M. Curtis' My Dad George and Samuel J. Agnew's Terlagio after Curtis' Flamingo and Florida Derby winner defeated Agnew's Santa Anita Derby victor by a neck Saturday in the seven-furlong Stepping Stone Purse at the Downs.
But there was some doubt in the camp of George Lewis as the California Derby winner coughed a little as he returned to his barn after working a half mile in 48 seconds.
"I don't think it was anything serious," said owner Alan Magerman. "It could have been the same thing as we do when we cough to clear our throats in the morning."
Magerman also said trainer Buster Millerick has decided to send George Lewis in Tuesday's one-mile Derby Trial which hasn't produced a Derby winner since Tim Tam in 1958.
Things were also looking bright for John Jacobs who trains Personality and High Echelon for his mother, Ethel. Jacobs was delighted Sunday after Personality, the Wood Memorial winner, worked seven furlongs in 1:26 3-5 and galloped out a mile in 1:39 2-5 and High Echelon went a half in 51 1-3 and galloped out five furlongs in 1:03 1-5.

Jim Cunningham To Attend Bellarmine

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Dayton Alter High School basketball standout Jim Cunningham has signed a letter of intent to attend Bellarmine College here next year.
Cunningham, 6-foot-7, 190 pounds, averaged 12 points and 15 rebounds a game for Alter last season.

best-of-7 Eastern Division semifinals that resume in Louisville Tuesday.
In the Western Division Sunday night, Los Angeles dumped Dallas 124-123 to take their semifinal series, 4-2.
Billy Melchioni scored a game-high 39 points as the Nets rebounded from last Wednesday's 128-101 thumping by the Colonels in New York.
Kentucky led only once in the game, then for just a brief time in the second period. Kentucky went ahead 31-30 in the second stanza on a 12-foot shot by Louie Dampier, but then New York went out in front again on two free throws by Melchioni.
Then Billy The Kid combined with teammate Walt Simon for 22 points to give the Nets an insurmountable 80-64 lead. Simon scored 31 points in the game.
Gene Moore scored 29 points and Jim Ligon added 25 for the Colonels.
Raymond's clutch basket pulled the Stars through in a game that produced 27 changes of lead and 17 ties, the last when Mack Calvin hit a free throw with 1:07 to play to knot it at 122.
After Dallas missed several opportunities to take the lead on misfired field goals, Raymond nudged in Merv Jackson's 20-foot toss for the winning shot.
Powell sank a free throw seconds later, but missed a five-footer when Raymond deflected the ball and grabbed it as time ran out.

In Memoriam

In memory of Mr. and Mrs. Ewell
Watts, who passed away April 27, 1968.
They have put on invisibility
Dear Lord, we cannot see—
But this we know, although the road ascends
And passes from our sight,
That there will be no night;
That you will take them, gently
by the hand.
And lead them on Along the road of life that never ends.
And they will find it is not death
but dawn
We do not doubt that You are there as here
And You will hold them dear.
Sadly missed by: Parents, Mr.
Mrs. Earl Radcliff, Sisters and families; Mr. and Mrs.
Russ Owens and family; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gowing and family; Mr. and Mrs. John Eitel and family.

DERBY DAY — Anglers braved early morning rain clouds Sunday at Hargus Lake, A. W. Marion State Park, during the annual trout derby. The Ohio Division of Wildlife released over 2,000 trout in the lake. By noon threatening clouds had cleared from the sky and there was a large turnout for the event.

FIRST TROUT — Doug Flowers, Ashville, caught the first tagged trout Sunday during the annual Hargus Lake Trout Derby. The trophy Doug holds in his left hand was presented by the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn.

Younger Children Said Mostly Likely Hunger Victims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hunger and malnutrition in the United States strikes preschool children and adolescents from poverty-ridden families the hardest, resulting in reduced growth and possible mental retardation, a federal scientist reported today.

In a survey prepared for the Senate Committee on Hunger and Human Needs, Dr. Samuel E. Schaefer said "by far the most frequently malnourished age groups are preschool children and adolescents."

"The younger population is the key contributor to the finding of serious malnutrition in the sample population as a whole," said Schaefer, chief of the nutrition program of the U.S. Health Services and Mental Health Administration.

Schaefer also said "There is no longer any doubt that the incidence of malnutrition is related to poverty-level incomes. The poorer you are the more likely you are to suffer from serious malnutrition."

Schaefer's study, conducted under the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, surveyed 10 states — large and small, urban and rural, North and South.

As an example of the study's findings Schaefer said a survey of 12,373 persons in Louisiana and Texas — two of the 10 states included in the report — discovered malnutrition's symptoms — widespread growth retardation, anemia, and unacceptable levels of vitamins A and C and riboflavin.

He said the results of the survey have prompted state officials to act to improve welfare and food distribution programs.

"There are indications that the survey in the other eight states will stimulate similar action programs," he said.

But at the time of the survey, he said, less than 10 per cent of those surveyed in Texas participated in either the Food Stamp or Commodity Distribution programs, both federally financed.

In Louisiana, he said, 29 per cent of those surveyed took part in the food stamp program and 12 per cent got surplus foods under the commodities programs.

"Lack of transportation to the source of the program, lack of understanding and eligibility regulations all exerted an influence on participation," he said.

In preliminary findings last year, Schaefer said, most children between one and three years of age were below the average height recorded for well-nourished American children. In the final study most children between the ages of six months and six years were retarded in growth and some showed signs of retarded bone growth as well, he said.

"Growth retardation is one of the first indications of malnutrition and reduced physical growth can be indicative of mental and neurological retardation," he added.

"The incidence of serious malnutrition — multiple nutritional deficiencies — is five times as high in persons at the bottom of the income scale," Dr. Schaefer said, adding that the bottom was considered $1,800 a year and below and the top $7,400 annually and above.

"The incidence of serious malnutrition among those persons in the middle of the poverty range — $1,800 to $3,600 — was two times as high as those at the top," he said.

Pickaway Grange

Worthy Deputy Master, Paul Dunkle and Junior Deputy Matron, Mrs. Paul Dawson, were present for the initiation inspection at Nebraska Grange's April 21st meeting.

The third degree was conferred on a class of candidates.

During the business session conducted by Roger Schneider, various reports were given. Youth Chairman, Edward Crites, reported on the annual Youth Banquet recently held at Wardell's.

Mrs. Chester Noecker reported on the baking and sewing contests which will be coming up soon. Legislative Agent, Joseph Peters, reminded members of the primary election and urged members to get out and vote. Short remarks were given by insurance agent, C. D. Bennett.

An appeal for aid was answered and the charter was draped in memory of Clyde Moody.

Plans are being completed for serving the Walnut-Madison Alumni Banquet on Saturday, May 2, under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Peters and her committee.

Refreshments were served in the dining room by the April committee with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Peters and Mrs. Norman Pontius in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dresbach will serve as chairman of the May committee.

showed up at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba, about noon Sunday and "requested food, water and medical attention, which were provided."

"We understand the commander of the group, Col. Octave Cayard, plans to seek political asylum for himself and his men," State Department spokesman Warren McGruder said. He did not explain the request for medical attention.

Two U.S. Coast Guard cutters were escorting the three ships to the U.S. Navy's Roosevelt Roads station in Puerto Rico.

"Until the ships have arrived in Puerto Rico and we have had an opportunity to ascertain all the various questions involved, we will not be able to comment on just what the disposition of this matter is," McGruder said of the asylum request.

The convoy was expected to arrive in Puerto Rico Wednesday afternoon. It appeared likely that the United States would grant the rebellious Haitians asylum and return the three ships to Duvalier.

Spring Concert Scheduled Friday Evening

Over 800 students in grades four, five and six from the Circleville Elementary Schools will participate in the sixth annual spring concert to be held Friday in the Junior High gymnasium.

The program, which is open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will last about one hour.

The concert is under the direction of the music teachers in the school system: Paul Dunkle, Truman Eberly, Clifford Kerns and William O'Neil.

Included in the evening program will be the fourth and fifth grade choir, fifth grade band, sixth grade choir and the sixth grade band.

For the fourth and fifth grade section of the festival, Dunkle has selected the theme: Around the World With Music. This will feature songs from many lands and in the final section, songs of America. Assisting the choir will be David Haradon as instrumental soloist.

The fifth grade band will play selections: "Away We Go," "Krazy Klock," and "Careless Clyde" which features a narrative part.

Directing the sixth grade choir will be Eberly, who has selected "For World Understanding" as the theme of his songs. Included will be "Sourwood Mountain," "For the Beauty of the Earth," and "Vesper Hymn."

Kerns will conduct the upper grade band in "The Warblers," which features the flutes and "Doodletown Drummers" which will feature the percussionists.

As a final number, Kerns and Dunkle will jointly conduct a band and choir arrangement of "America, the Beautiful."

Kingston Church To Host Revival

Kingston Baptist Church will host a two-week Revival Meeting beginning 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Rev. Henry Hix will preach.

Candidates To Come To Ohioans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohioans won't have to look for politicians this week — the politicians will be coming to them. All statewide candidates plan extensive travel in this last full week before the May 5 primary.

Two candidates have said they will not be making last-minute broadcast and newspaper publicity drives. Senatorial candidate John Glenn says he doesn't have the money and confident gubernatorial hopeful John Gilligan is saving the advertising for the general election. Both are Democrats.

Glenn has scheduled appearances this week in Toledo, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Youngstown, Akron, Hamilton, Springfield, Dayton and Columbus.

Gilligan, whose itinerary looks much like Glenn's, spoke today in Springfield, where he said Ohio's municipalities cannot afford to establish adequate water pollution control facilities unless the state provides financial help.

Republican gubernatorial candidates Paul W. Brown, Roger Cloud and Donald E. Lukens also are covering a great deal of ground this week. Cloud alone expects to travel 2,700 miles, visiting 46 counties.

Brown issued a statement Sunday in Columbus calling for a greater voice for Ohio farmers in production, marketing and profits.

"The poverty percentage among small farmers is almost twice that of any other occupation," Brown said.

Democrat Howard Metzenbaum said Sunday in Cleveland that if elected to the U.S. Senate his first responsibility would be to work for drastic cuts in the nation's defense budget. He spends $965 a year per person — $500 of it for defense, the national debt, space and war research.

Metzenbaum will appear in southern Ohio today, blanketing the state by airplane Tuesday.

Gov. James A. Rhodes was spending today preparing for his Akron television debate with Robert Taft Jr. The final confrontation between the Republican senatorial contenders comes Saturday at the Cleveland City Club. Both men plan extensive appearances around the state this week.

In the Democratic race for governor, Robert E. Sweeney is planning several stops this week, most of them in northern Ohio.

His opponent, Mark McElroy, said Sunday in Medina that, if elected, he would form an ecological control board to supplant both the state air and water pollution control boards.

Earth Day Activists Warn Politicians To Shape Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earth Day activists, encouraged by the public's reaction to their campaign to clean up poisoned waters and smoggy skies, have warned politicians to take strong action against environmental despoilers or face election defeat.

The small band of college-age students who organized Earth Day "are vowing political action in November against those in government who do not match their rhetoric with action," said Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif.

"I think that 75 to 80 per cent of the candidates running this year will have the environment as a significant part of their campaigns," predicted Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., who first proposed last Wednesday's demonstrations for a healthier environment.

On the morning after Earth Day, national coordinator Denis Hayes began scouring the country — Denver, Los Angeles, San Francisco, and other major cities — for money and manpower.

Most of Earth Day's ad hoc staff in Washington has evaporated, leaving only seven or eight incorporated under the name "Environmental Action"; and some of them weren't sure how long they could stay.

"Financially," said staff member Sam Love, "We're dead."

But they viewed this as only a temporary slump.

Hayes, interviewed by telephone in California, said he was getting a "reasonably good response" on his tour and was impressed "with the dedication of the local groups to continue."

"The most important achievement of Earth Day," said spokesman Steve Cotton in Washington, "is that it established 4,000 community and campus groups around the country that now have the ability to organize for action."

Many of those groups will hold regional meetings in May, he said, and regional representatives will hold a national meeting in June.

"Some concrete decisions should come out of that on what will happen in the 1970 elections," Cotton said. "We will be collecting lists of campaigns around the country and analyzing the records of candidates."

"One idea is to take a reasonable number of races where we can make a clear choice between the candidates and where our resources can make a difference, then focus public attention on a guy with a good or bad record — maybe organize campaign workers."

Cotton said Earth Day "turned out a few million people in this country . . . They're part of something that no politician and no businessman can afford to ignore."

Egyptian Commandos Stage Raids Across Suez Canal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egyptian commandos made two raids across the Suez Canal Sunday, but as usual Egypt and Israel disputed the results.

Cairo said 200 troops made the first attack before dawn, and it was the largest Egyptian raid across the canal in nearly five months. Egypt claimed the raiders stormed El Shat and took the Israeli defenders "by complete surprise," overrunning their positions, killing or wounding 35 troops, and destroying four anti-aircraft guns, two tanks, two halftracks, two trucks and two bulldozers. Cairo reported three Egyptian soldiers killed.

Israel said there were no Israeli casualties, five Egyptians were killed, and the Egyptian report was "a fable out of 'A Thousand and One Nights.'"

Later Sunday, Cairo reported, more Egyptian commandos crossed the canal, attacked two Israeli patrols and destroyed three halftracks and two tanks. A spokesman said one Egyptian and the members of an Israeli tank crew were killed.

Israel said the Egyptians ambushed a motorized patrol north of El Qantara. It claimed that its soldiers rushed the attackers, drove them back to the canal, and sank a boat carrying eight soldiers. Tel Aviv said five Israelis and nine Egyptians were wounded but that all the commandos escaped to the Egyptian side of the canal.

The Israeli military command also reported the third air strike against guerrilla outposts in Jordan in three days. Israeli jets struck near Ma'oz Haim in the Beisan Valley and near the Israeli town of Neve Ur, spokesmen said. Tel Aviv claimed the two bases were staging posts for guerrilla raids against Israeli civilian settlements.

All the planes returned safely, the Israelis said.

Tel Aviv said Israeli ground forces came under fire from Jordanian territory in the northern Jordan Valley Sunday and that one Israeli soldier was injured.

On the political front, Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser announced that he had appointed Hassanein Heikal, his close friend and editor of the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahrar, as minister of information. Heikal speaks for Nasser in his newspaper so often that his weekly editorials are interpreted as statements of the Egyptian president's views.

Heikal replaces Mohamed Fayed, who was named minister of state. Nasser also named three other new ministers to his 30-man Cabinet.

An area in which South Central Power feels a great deal of responsibility to its consumers is in the education and counseling of the younger generation.

To that end our field representatives work with young people in 4-H Clubs, in farm organizations, and in the schools themselves, lecturing on the uses and applications of electric power. Too, we sponsor scholarship competition in our area in cooperation with the Ohio Rural Electric Cooperatives Association. South Central Country students have won several of these competitions.

We help in another way, too. The beautiful Teays Valley High School (shown in the aerial photo) is one of our consumers. The entire school (with an enrollment of 680) is powered by electric energy from South Central. It is heated by electricity. Its classrooms are lighted and its visual aids and recorded lessons are all utilized by the use of electric power.
